

Leap Year baby bonanza in Rochelle

Rochelle Community Hospital experienced a bonanza of leap-year babies Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jose Navarro had their first child, a daughter, Jessica Renee, who weighed 8½ pounds; Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Hueramo had their second daughter, not yet named, who weighed 7 pounds, 15¼ ounces; Mr. and Mrs. Sergio Miranda had their second son, Adam Michael, 7 pounds 14 ounces; and the Jeffrey Austins had a daughter, Lyrah, who weighed 8 pounds 8 ounces. The Austins have a son at home.

The Miranda baby was the first to be born, with the Hueramo, Austin and Navarro babies following.

Mrs. Jose Navarro and baby girl.

Mrs. Antonio Hueramo and baby girl.

Mrs. Jeffrey Austin and baby girl.

Mrs. Sergio Miranda and baby boy.

Objections to Gearhart proposal

By WAYNE LYON

Another competitor has joined the field in the squabble over use of limited capacity of the sewer system at the city's northern limits.

At Monday night's City Council meeting at City Hall, Ken Nelson stated his objections to a pre-annexation agreement currently being worked out between the City Council and Orval Gearhart Jr.

Nelson joins Lincoln Village Development Co. and Beeler and Beeler as objectors to the agreement.

The Gearhart-city agreement has been worked on for some months. Gearhart wants to build a sewage lift station on his property and dedicate it to the city in return for a guarantee of 117 gallons per minute of sewage flow reserved exclusively for his use.

The 117 gallons per minute is the amount estimated by engineers to remain in the Lowell Park lift station which moves the sewage flow southward over Galena Avenue into the gravity feed sewer lines.

Nelson identified himself as owning property across from Gibson's Discount Center and Plum Hollow. Gearhart owns the Plum Hollow property and it is that area which he plans to develop if he gets the agreement worked out with the city.

Nelson asked the council two questions: "What is the total capacity of the sewer system in the area?" and "Had Gearhart submitted any formal plans for use of the property?"

He was told the total capacity of the Lowell Park lift station was 300 gallons and that a "liberal" estimate of the capacity that remains is 117 gallons.

Nelson said he was "concerned" over possible usage of the sewer capacity. "I have property available for development myself. I've spent more than $30,000 getting it ready for future development. I feel that the sewer use should be given to someone who is ready rather than tying it up for five years. If I were you I would be acutely aware of our need for sewer and water rather than the possibility of something happening in five years. Without any plans, how can you act on need? All it is is a pipe dream which cuts someone else out of use of the sewer."

Mayor William L. Naylor interjected. "The engineers have informed me that at very little cost the Lowell Park lift station can be upgraded to handle another 120 gallons per minute and that the existing sewer lines will handle it."

This didn't sway Nelson who repeated his objections. "If there is a need for it, okay, but without any formal plans why should Gearhart have the sewer and water wrapped up?"

Finance Commissioner Walter P. Lohse joined the discussion with a question directed to Nelson.

"Are you suggesting that we get a complete layout of everything he (Gearhart) plans to do before we make a decision? Is it fair for us not to consider this request just because someone else wants part of the sewer capacity?"

Lohse continued, "At some time or another, any sewer line eventually reaches capacity. We're trying to make a decision on how that remaining capacity should be used."

Nelson went back to his question, "Is it a need or a pipe dream?"

Lohse retorted, "Gearhart intends to spend considerable sums of money for a lift station."

David Williamson, an attorney representing Nelson, took up the discussion. "It is primarily our concern that anyone seeking an exclusive use provision should submit detailed plans," he remarked. "It should be far more than just a general scheme and it shouldn't eliminate any other plans."

Jack Heaton, representing Lincoln Village Development and Beeler and Beeler, said he felt Williamson's point should be well taken, adding if the city is planning to give away five years of sewer use there should be plans to substantiate the request.

This brought a remark from Commissioner Thomas A. Densmore that the pre-annexation agreement was "very unique." He added, "It's a decision that will not be made lightly."

Lohse, too, had a comment, saying "It is paradoxical that in estimating the 117 gallons of sewage available, the engineers have reserved capacity for the 19th Green," identifying it as a Beeler and Beeler development.

Heaton corrected Lohse, stating the 19th Green was a Lincoln Village Development Co. project.

Heaton further added that Beeler and Beeler had gone to the expense of excavating and filling property at the corner of Galena Avenue and Lowell Park Road, and planned to develop it "as soon as something comes his way."

Lohse said he objected to statements that the Gearhart proposal was a "pie-in-the-sky" plan. Because of his proposed expenditure for the lift station, Lohse added, Gearhart was exhibiting his willingness to proceed.

Heaton asked what would happen if the Gearhart development plans fell through.

Lohse answered, "They are showing their earnestness by being willing to expend funds for the lift station. If the development fails, it's their loss."

Williamson returned to the discussion asking if the council was willing to give a subdeveloper exclusive use of the sewer for five years.

Lohse shot back, "That is the problem going through all the council discussions on the matter." He continued, "There is no iron-clad lid on 300 gallons of sewage capacity. The Lowell Park Station can be modified to increase capacity. All the figures used in figuring the capacity are very liberal, calling for an absolute peak flow. I think these facts will help the council in its decision on the pre-annexation agreement."

Heaton wanted to know what Gearhart planned to pay for the lift station.

Densmore said bids had not been let, but that $20,000 to $30,000 would be a ball-park figure, adding the station would conform to city's wishes.

Heaton commented, "My client has already expended money."

Lohse answered, "That, however, was for site improvement, not sewage system improvement."

Commissioner Jim G. Burke said the council was trying to handle the matter "in an equitable way so that nobody gets hurt."

"Maybe we should rethink the total commitment in the area," he went on. "Ken, if you spent $30,000 on a lift station and then found the capacity gone, you'd be upset and I'm sure if Mr. Gearhart were in your shoes he'd understand your problem. Maybe we can take care of the Gearharts by reserving 80 gallons per minute."

Naylor chimed in, "It doesn't have to be all one way."

Nelson commented, "If they had a plan and could justify taking all the capacity I'd be the last one to complain, but they want to eliminate future development and are willing

Weather cuts into voter turnout in Massachusetts

Tornado drill Wednesday

A tornado warning drill will be held Wednesday at 10 a.m. throughout Illinois with special emphasis on schools and Civil Defense preparedness. Drills will be conducted between 10 and 10:15 a.m. in all schools. The state-wide exercise, conducted by the Emergency Services and Disaster Agency, Springfield, will gauge tornado preparedness statewide.

nation's first with all major Democratic candidates on the ballot.

Several election officials predicted many voters would stay home as freezing rain pelted some towns in the western and northeastern portions of the state and snow fell in some central areas.

A snow storm also was cutting into the turnout in Vermont, where the voting was strictly a preferential poll with no delegates at stake. Delegates are chosen at the party conventions.

Massachusetts' secretary of state, Paul Guzzi, had predicted a turnout of between 35 and 40 per cent of the state's 2.8 million registered voters — up to about 1.1 million — as candidates battled for the state's 102 national convention delegates. Observers were hesitant to predict a finishing order in the Democratic race, where voters also have a "no preference" choice. Forty-three Republican delegates were at stake.

The focus was on the Democratic race in Massachusetts, with all eight major candidates on the ballot and no clear favorite to win. Both President Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan are on the GOP ballot, but neither campaigned in the state.

Boston had a dusting of snow and blustery winds and temperatures barely above freezing.

The failure of a major electric transmission line knocked out power to 20,000 customers in 12 western suburbs of Boston and interrupted balloting.

Walker submits $9.9 billion state budget

By BARRY HANSON
Associated Press Writer

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Caught between limited resources and increasing demands for state services, Gov. Daniel Walker has proposed a $9.9 billion election-year budget calling for modest spending increases.

Walker, a Democrat who faces a stiff competition in his bid for renomination in the state's March 16 primary election, proposed Monday that the state spend $8.41 billion in the fiscal year beginning July 1, some $403 million more than is expected to be spent in the current fiscal year.

The increase amounts to 5 per cent, compared to spending hikes of 13 per cent and 19 per cent in the previous two years, according to budget figures.

Traditionally, more money is appropriated than spent during a fiscal year because the state sets aside funds to be used for projects that cannot be completed in one year.

The budget, which will be formally presented to the General Assembly Wednesday, represents the governor's priorities for spending while maintaining his pledge not to raise state taxes.

"The state will meet human needs while continuing to live within its resources," Walker said.

The proposed budget is $224 million less than the $10.1 billion in appropriations approved by the General Assembly for the current fiscal year.

The reduction was achieved in part by substantially chopping the state's capital program—those building projects which generally are financed by the sale of 25-year bonds.

However, appropriations from the general revenue fund, which is supported primarily by the state's sales and income taxes, will be increased by $307 million to provide boosts for education, public aid, mental health and other services, the governor said.

Walker has been criticized recently because the general fund, from which the state's daily bills are paid, has dropped so low that payments to some creditors have been delayed.

And the governor faces howls from educators who requested substantially more for elementary, secondary and higher education than Walker included in the budget.

To provide the increases he did, Walker is counting on a general fund revenue growth of $584 million next year.

The State Chamber of Commerce, which monitors the state's fiscal situation, has predicted general fund growth of $426 million during the year.

Under the governor's budget plan, the state will begin the fiscal year with $133 million available for spending from the general fund and will end the year with $181 million.

This budgetary increase is predicated on several legislative proposals by Walker to give the state a one-time $95 (See $9.9 BILLION on page 9)

Crime up in target cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Violent crime has "considerably worsened" in eight cities that the Nixon administration chose for a multimillion-dollar anti-crime program in 1972, a government-funded study reported today.

Evaluators from the Mitre Corp., a private research firm, concluded that the "high impact anticrime program" failed to fulfill the Nixon administration's promise of a 5 per cent reduction in street crimes and burglary within two years in the target cities.

The cities are Atlanta, Baltimore, Cleveland, Dallas, Denver, Newark, N.J., St. Louis, Mo., and Portland, Ore. They have received $140 million in federal funds for 233 anticrime projects since the program was launched in January 1972.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration operated the program, which ends in December, and paid Mitre $2.4 million to evaluate the results.

The report suggested that it was foolish for administration officials to launch the program with the claim that it would bring about an actual percentage reduction in the crime rate. The promised reductions were not "based on any empirical evidence that could be attained," the report said.

Political pressures to achieve the goal and to get specific projects started quickly hampered the program by discouraging adequate planning, the report said. But some cities were able to overcome the handicap, the researchers noted.

Though concluding that crime rates generally increased, the report said the increase might have been much greater if the program had not been in operation.

The evaluators also concluded that the program gave officials in the eight cities valuable training in planning and carrying out crime-fighting projects.

The evaluators said it's difficult to judge precisely what impact the program had on the cities' crime rates. They based their conclusions on FBI figures for crimes reported to police in those cities.

Saw Patty with bullets, says surprise witness

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A surprise prosecution rebuttal witness will testify he saw Patricia Hearst carrying bullets during a Symbionese Liberation Army bank holdup, it was reported today.

Miss Hearst, who is claiming she participated in the robbery under duress, has specifically stated that she never knew during the robbery if the sawed-off M1 carbine the SLA gave her was loaded and that she had no other ammunition in her possession at the time.

The San Francisco Chronicle said it had learned that a rumored prosecution "surprise witness" is Zig Berzins, a stereo store owner whose shop is across from the Hibernia Bank at 22nd and Noriega streets where the holdup occurred.

The Chronicle said Berzins has identified Miss Hearst as the woman he saw picking up bullets and two ammunition clips that spilled when she was bumped as she entered the bank.

Berzins was expected to be called today when U.S. Attorney James L. Browning Jr. opens his rebuttal case amid speculation that the trial of the 22-year-old newspaper heiress could go to the jury by week's end.

After a last-minute pitch aimed at shattering the credibility of a government-produced film of Miss Hearst during the robbery, the defense rested its case Monday with a stormy accusation of prosecution misconduct.

Ford's Florida strategy

MIAMI (NEA)— President Ford recently published a statement of his not very interesting personal financial affairs; that done, he set off for a campaign tour of central and southern Florida. The sequence was not accidental.

Ronald Reagan, Mr. Ford's opponent for the Republican nomination, has a bigger, more zealous body of support in Florida than he does in most states, and its presidential primary election on March 9 comes very early in the game. Mr. Ford does not want an early setback in a big state like this.

Clad as it was in all the appropriate statesmanlike presidential and Republic trappings, Ford's trip was a sortie against Reagan. The finances of candidates are a matter of particular interest at the moment in Florida, where the Democratic governor, Reubin Askew, is campaigning for a state constitutional amendment to require full financial disclosure from candidates for office— even state judges.

Reagan has a lot more money than Mr. Ford, his financial affairs are more complex and his disclosure of them has so far been distinctly less complete.

When the general elections come in November, the Republicans of Florida will not have much say in deciding for which party the state casts its electoral votes; the voters registered as Democrats outnumber those registered as Republicans by two and a half to one. The registered Democrats can, however, be persuaded to vote for a Republican for president, as they largely did for Richard Nixon and General Eisenhower— but not for Barry Goldwater.

This requires the Republican candidate to be somebody whom they think acceptable, a matter over which they, the Democrats, have no control; there the registered Republicans do the choosing, on March 9. An attempt to alter the state law to enable Democrats to change their voter registration for the purpose of the Republican primary election, reverting to their traditional party for the choice of state and local candidates in September, was made but failed. So Ford and Reagan are left competing for the mantle of Republican authenticity.

Reagan's response to this particular challenge is much the same in Florida as in the country at large— to represent Washington, the federal government, as politically soft and unprincipled but bureaucratic and spendthrift.

Oddly enough these have been the main themes of Ford's political life, but now he is the man in charge in Washington. For some of the doings of Washington Ford can, and regularly does, decline responsibility, transferring it to the Democratic Congress. Other actions of the federal government he has to defend to some extent, since they are, after all, his own.

For the purpose of appealing to the relatively narrow Republican electorate, with a view to winning the nomination, he feels he has to deny Reagan any monopoly of the designation of "conservative." For the purpose of getting elected he will need to look rather different, but that has to wait until after the Republican convention in August.

The truth is that not much difference of political philosophy exists between Ford and Reagan, but their situations are different. Mr. Ford, as president, has to make momentous decisions every day. Reagan has shed even the responsibilities of governor of California. He can speak up for ideas, or, to be more precise, for a mood. In addition Reagan is a charmer and a showman, while Mr. Ford is a plodder who, to be fair, has never pretended to be anything but a plodder.

Quickly as they were seized upon by political journalists on the lookout for a difference, President Ford's attacks on Reagan on his Florida tour were not strikingly direct. He managed to suggest to the elderly retired people who abound in St. Petersburg that their pensions and their health care benefits would be safer in his hands than in those of some unnamed person who wanted to dismantle the federal budget wholesale. He told the city fathers and party leaders in Fort Myers of the additional funds that the revenue-sharing system would be bringing them, whereas others might bring them, "higher local taxes, or reduced service, or both." When he mentioned foreign policy he dwelt on a strong national defense, but, he said at Fort Lauderdale, it was better to keep your powder dry than to "come out with your finger on the trigger" of nuclear war. So an attempt was perceptible to "Goldwaterize" Reagan, as somebody on Ford's campaign staff put it, but it was kept within mannerly limits.

Not precisely calling Reagan an extremist, he suggested as much: "Anything to the extreme right of that philosophy," he said, referring in an indistinct phrase to his own indistinct position, "cannot win a national election."

Before his visit to Florida Mr. Ford was believed to be lagging behind Reagan, perhaps as badly as by 45-55 per cent, in Republican voter preferences. When he left, without having created any great excitement, he had evened things up or a little better, he had acquired a reality for the voters that he had not previously possessed and his not very lively campaign organization in the state had gained an injection of vigor.

For the President to say, as Mr. Ford did, that a setback or two would not deter him from fighting on until the convention is not an unreal statement (provided, one should add, that the setbacks are not so severe as to be humiliating). For a challenger to say the same thing would not carry conviction.

The Kissinger Record

By JOHN F. McMANUS BELMONT, Mass.—

The radio interviewer asked for my opinion of the career of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. Without hesitation I stated that Henry Kissinger is one of the chief proponents of a policy which is designed to weaken the United States and to strengthen Communism everywhere. His goal, as I expressed it, is to wipe out all distinctions between the United States and the Communist bloc preparatory to a merger of all nations into a one-world tyranny.

To back up my opinions, I analyzed some of the more blatantly pro-Communist moves of our Secretary of State.

—As a result of the Kissinger-arranged peace treaty of 1973, large portions of South Vietnam were left in the hands of the Communists, and the North was permitted to keep approximately 300,000 troops in the South, making the eventual complete triumph of Communism a certainty. Because South Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia did fall, the Philippines and Thailand moved closer to the Communist orbit.

—Beginning with the Kissinger-arranged Presidential visits to Moscow and Peking, the United States has been catapulted into a dizzying euphoria called detente. Stripped of its propaganda, however, detente means that we supply the Reds with legitimacy, food, technology, equipment and credit, while they drive for world conquest on every continent. Detente also amounts to a dishonorable compromise—a sort of begging for peace with the world's most ruthless tyrants.

—As our chief disarmament negotiator, Mr. Kissinger has engineered the decline of our nation into second-rate military status. His efforts have brought about superiority for the U.S.S.R. in intercontinental ballistic missiles and in a host of other military categories.

—On Feb. 7, while in Panama, Henry Kissinger signed an agreement to turn over the Panama Canal to the Marxist, America-hating dictatorship of Omar Torrijos. In spite of strong opposition to this proposal in both houses of Congress, negotiations to accomplish the sellout are continuing.

—In July of 1975 President Ford signed the Kissinger-arranged Helsinki declaration. This shameful document ratified Communist absorption of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia; accepted the division of Germany; and legally approved the Communist domination of one-half of Europe. A more massive capitulation would be difficult to imagine.

—Over the past few years, Henry Kissinger has shuttled back and forth between Israel and the Arab states, involving our nation more and more in that explosive situation. While serving, according to an amazing Soviet pronouncement, as Moscow's representative too, Kissinger has arranged for American arms to be supplied to both sides in the Middle East, and has also succeeded in placing two hundred American "technicians" in the buffer zone between the adversaries. In many ways, he has set the stage for possible U.S. involvement in yet another undeclared war.

Without disagreeing with the facts I presented, my radio host insisted that Henry Kissinger was not disloyal or dangerous, but that he was bargaining as best he could for an America that had already lost its will to survive in the face of growing Communist power. In other words, Kissinger was to be praised as an able negotiator for a defeated America.

My immediate response was to agree that America's foreign policies since the end of World War II had certainly been designed to demoralize us. But I hastily added my firm conviction that Americans do have the will to resist Communist domination. What they need is an end to the treachery of our leaders, a treachery personified by Henry A. Kissinger.

Hobbling the twin grim habits

By TOM TIEDE WASHINGTON (NEA)— Massachusetts Rep. Robert Drinan has introduced a bill in the House of Representatives which, among other things, would strengthen the warning labels on cigarette packages. As a coincidence, another legislator, Rev. Stephen Neal of North Carolina, has proposed that a health warning label henceforth be affixed to every bottle of booze sold in the nation. In both cases, it seems to me, the cause is good but the ideas are not.

The cause is the increased well-being of the American people. Drinan feels that since smoking contributes to the deaths of an estimated 300,000 people annually, and since the U.S. Public Health Service calls the weed the "largest single unnecessary and preventable cause of illness and early death," greater government condemnation of the addiction is merited. Likewise, Neal wishes for increased federal concern with the facts that liquor helps to kill some 80,000 people a year, addicts 200,000 others, and has an annual social cost of at least $123 per capita.

Surely, the toll of the twin habits is grim. Booze is the fourth largest killer in the nation, and has created a subculture of living dead in which nine million alcoholics presently dwell. Cigarettes are said to seriously affect 30 to 40 million Americans, of all ages, and in addition present risks and discomforts for the 150 million people who do not smoke but must suffer the insidious pollution of the minority.

Yet would more warning labels end (or even subtract from) the victimization? The argument here is: Not likely. In the case of cigarettes, the warning labels have been present for 12 years, the language thereon already strengthened once, but consumption has continued to grow. In all but two of the dozen years sales have increased, the 1975 total being 583 million units. More teen-agers than ever smoke now, the growth in female teen-age smoking is most depressing. Per capita consumption is down, but overall smoking increases at about 2 per cent each year.

It should be entered here that the American Lung Association estimates that 30 million people (some of these more than once) have quit smoking in the dozen years. But this was undoubtedly the result of the total anti-weed information rather than the package label itself. One Lung staff member says the label "probably had some early effect, because of its novelty, but in all honesty I can't imagine anyone buying a pack today, eyeing the label, saying 'Oh, Golly, I didn't know this,' and then tossing the butts away."

Indeed, the novelty effect of the warning label has faded. Never a good education tool, according to Georgetown University psychologist, J. Gilmore Sherman, the repetitious aspects of the warning label may also have produced a saturation whereby it is no longer even noticed. "I smoke heavily," says psychologist Sherman, "and I worry about it—but I no longer know the label is even there."

In fact, the saturation of warning labels of various kinds may be producing widespread and counterproductive apathy in the country. Not only does the government warn the citizenry about dozens of dangers including smoking (forest fires, tardy income tax returns, environmental destruction), but charitable groups and even commercial enterprises bombard the public with admonitions that border on threats: Support your Heart Association, or you'll be sorry; buy oleomargarine if you worry about serum cholesterol; one auto safety ad has children talking about daddy's driving habits followed by a loud sound-track crash.

To the extent that saturation warning has worried millions of Americans, and caused in millions of others the kind of guilt feelings that lead to excessive drink, the relentless public foreboding campaigns have succeeded. So too have the charities and margarine companies profited. But are the people better off? On the contrary, more people smoke, drink, get cancer and pack hospitals than ever before.

Well meaning or not, we cannot frighten people into behavior modification, we cannot legislate good health. And if we insist on printing negative labels for everything with a social consequence we may only succeed in convincing more and more worriers to give up reading.

Love is skin-deep. Give Blood.

The $125 million difference.

In 1975, our nuclear stations produced 35% of the power we generated, and saved our customers $125 million in fuel costs.

Power you can count on.

In the face of growing demands for electric power on one hand and the scarcity of low-sulfur fossil fuels on the other, Commonwealth Edison has continually increased the role of low-cost reliable nuclear energy in northern Illinois.

During 1975, our confidence in nuclear power was borne out. 35 percent of the kilowatt-hours we produced came from our seven nuclear units. During the hot summer months, when demand for electricity peaked, nuclear power accounted for nearly 40% of the total energy we produced—an extremely impressive performance during the most crucial part of the year. And just as importantly, this was accomplished at a cost much lower than would have been possible with coal- or oil-burning stations.

Power that saves you money.

Our nuclear power plants save money because the fuel they use is less expensive than the coal and oil burned in fossil fuel generators. Had we been forced to rely on low-sulfur western coal, the fuel bill alone for our customers in northern Illinois would have been $125 million higher. Substituting imported oil, fuel costs would have increased even more.

All costs included, we can produce a kilowatt-hour with our nuclear units for about 20% less than we could with low-sulfur coal at a coal-fired station. Nuclear power is working for you.

The energy shortage we face today won't disappear overnight. But it is reassuring to know that, at a time when Americans are using more electricity, and the costs of fossil fuels are rising, we have a good alternative in nuclear energy. It's cheaper. It's cleaner. And because it uses uranium fuel, it actually helps to conserve the more scarce—and more expensive—fossil fuel resources, and makes America less dependent on foreign sources for energy.

Commonwealth Edison Working for you.

Market flirts with 1,000 mark

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market tension continues, and if it lasts much longer, some enterprising producer of games might soon come out with a big seller called "Crack The Dow Thousand."

Week after week this year the Dow Jones Industrial Average has been tantalizingly close to 1,000 points. Last Thursday it was within four points — and then it took a dive.

There is magic about that level on the DJIA, make no mistake. It is indeed a barrier.

It is intimidating. It is only a number, God knows, but to many people it seems to be either the wall of heaven or Valhalla.

Seven times since 1966 this average has headed toward the barrier, but only in late 1972 did it push through and remain there for at least a day. Within weeks it was far below that level again.

The stock market is suspicious, neurotic, guilt-ridden. Myths become realities because they are so totally believed in. And one of those manufactured realities is the 1,000-point barrier.

As the average heads toward that figure portfolio managers become suspicious of the intentions of other portfolio managers. They fear the others will dump massively, and leave them stranded with deflated stocks.

When, after vacillating and, as they say, backing and filling and consolidating, the market finally does penetrate through the barrier, many investors become unnerved. It's too high, they say; it has to fall.

Quite often you will hear the market described in terms of the tide, but it is not the tide. The direction and force of the wind and the position of the moon dictate the height of the tide. It is predictable.

The forces that move the stock market, however, are too various to even count. The marketplace is mass psychology. It is hauled and pushed by so many forces that to forecast its direction is to play a game.

One of the big factors in the game this week is interest rates. After DJIA average reached 996 last week it went into reverse. Seeking the most likely explanation, the analysts decided on the interest rate threat.

If interest rates rise, it was theorized, the stock market will inevitably be hurt. High interest draws investors into the bond markets. High interest cuts into corporate profits.

The fact is that interest rates are very low compared with a year ago. But the threat is as important as the actuality. Traders took their profits, and so proved that a threat is as potent as the actuality.

Another question that analysts of various persuasions are asking this week is whether the economy justifies a market this high. That consideration is inevitable whenever the DJIA comes close to 1,000 points.

While the market and its averages are determined by a psychological process that few people really understand, there does seem to exist feeling that the economy finally is in shape to support a 1,000-point-plus reading.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, March 2, the 62nd day of 1976. There are 304 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1836, Texas proclaimed independence from Mexico.

On this date: In 1585, Sir Francis Drake left Britain for the West Indies as a privateer.

In 1775, colonists in Providence, R.I., publicly burned 300 pounds of British documents.

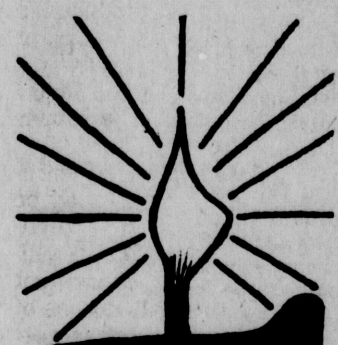

In 1861, Dakota was organized as a U.S. territory.

In 1949, an American B-50 Superfort landed at Fort Worth, Tex., after completing the first non-stop flight around the world.

In 1962, in a military coup in Burma, General Ne Win overthrew Premier U Nu.

In 1974, Israel and Syria agreed to confer in the United States on separation of their fighting forces in the Golan Heights area.

One year ago: A terrorist bombing in a bus in Nairobi, Kenya, killed 27 people and injured about 100.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Those whom you depend upon may not come through today. Don't be concerned. Things should work out in the long run.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
You'll be more prone to do things for others today if you feel you are doing them voluntarily. But even if you're pushed a little, do them anyway.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Generally, you're a very sociable person. Today you may not be as accommodating, but eventually your real character will shine through.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Initially you may have some self-doubts, but once you become enmeshed in a project you'll find you can handle it.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22)
Look for the plus side in any dealings today. If you encounter someone you've had a disagreement with, remember: Making up is a pleasant experience.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22)
If you're doing a favor for someone today, work with their resources. It's important to show them how to depend on themselves.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 23)
Don't anticipate the actions of others negatively. Once you have a chance to observe what actually transpires, you'll be pleasantly surprised.

SCORPIO (Oct 23-Nov 22)
Find time to work on things you enjoy doing for yourself today. You can do this without neglecting your obligations.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21)
Grasp the reins if you feel there's a situation you can handle better than others. Your intuition is correct.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19)
Don't set your sights too high today. You can accomplish that which is within reasonable reach.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb. 19)
Conditions beyond your control may effect some changes in your plans today. However, they may turn out better than the original scheme.

PISCES (Feb 20-March 20)
Encourage friends who can help you behind the scenes at work today. A word from someone on the inside can cut yards of red tape.

your birthday
March 3, 1976

You've made some friends who are more concerned for your welfare than you are aware of. This year you may see evidence of their worth you'll find hard to believe.

Everett Willstead, Dixon, served as best man. The groom's brother, David, Harmon, seated the guests. Michael Chamberlain, nephew of the bride from Bloomington, was ring bearer.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Dixon Elks Club with Mr. and Mrs. Mark Chamberlain, Bloomington, host and hostess. Linda Sutton, sister of the groom from Harmon, and Teresa Chamberlain, sister of the bride from Des Plaines, served the wedding cake. Punch was served by Joan Kreps, Sterling, sister of the bride, while Doris Chamberlain, the bride's sister from Chicago, poured coffee. In charge of gifts were the bride's sisters, Janet Chamberlain, Normal, and Nancy Chamberlain, Dixon. Guests were registered by Carol Chamberlain, sister of the bride from Des Plaines.

The newlyweds are now residing at 111 W. Boyd in Dixon.

They are both presently employed at the Dixon Developmental Center.

... for and about women

Cocktail shrieker was ungracious

Dear Ann Landers: Am I right or wrong? I'll take your word for it. Last night my wife and I attended a cocktail party. A woman we have known for a long time (no special favorite) entered with her husband. She walked directly over to me and enthusiastically extended her hand. I grasped it in an equally enthusiastic manner. Suddenly this nut let out a blood-curdling scream that could have been heard in China. "My God," she shrieked. "My rings are cutting my fingers to the bone! What are you trying to do? Prove your masculinity?" Everyone in the place craned their necks to see what was happening. I was dumbfounded. All I could think to say was, "I'm so sorry."

My wife is furious with me. She says I should have given that broad a fat lip so she'd have something to scream about. We both want your opinion. — Nassau Fan

Dear Nassau: Granted, some men don't know their own strength, but that shrieker was certainly ungracious to attack you as if you had hurt her intentionally.

Your wife's suggestion that you belt "the broad" in the mouth was a bummer. By the time she reads this letter, I'm sure she'll agree.

Dear Ann Landers: That letter from the guy who was called a "sourpuss" because he didn't smile much hit close to home.

Ever since I can remember my mother nagged me to "turn up the corners of my mouth." Once she paid an artist to sketch a picture of me with a glum look on my face. After that I made an effort to smile as seldom as possible.

When I was in my 20s I was walking down the corridor of the office where I worked. A woman I'd never seen before was heading toward me. Suddenly she stopped and said, "Cheer up. Things can't be THAT bad!" I caught my reflection in the window and was shocked at how downhearted I looked.

That very day I began to practice smiling in the mirror and I vowed I'd keep a smile on my face no matter how glum I felt. Know what? That pleasant expression felt ever so much better. All it took was relaxing the frown lines between my eyebrows and bringing up the corners of my mouth a quarter of an inch.

The rewards have been tremendous. I now drive a school bus and one of the kids said just last week, "You make us all feel good because you look so cheerful. You're not like the other driver who always looked so grumpy." Sign this — Kalamazoo

Dear Zoo: A beauty expert once told me, "A smiling face looks ten years younger. It lifts EVERYTHING." And it does! Well, almost. Thanks for sharing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 12 years old. This morning when I read your column, I got so mad I almost jumped out of my skin.

Why do people think an only child has to be spoiled rotten, is selfish and unable to adjust to anything? Actually, the opposite is true. I've seen kids who depend on their brothers and sisters for everything. They also fight a lot and are always competing for attention.

I'm an only child and can tell you I'm not sorry I have no brothers or sisters. The love between me and my mom and dad is very special because it's split only three ways. Print this please. Only children should get a chance to express their feelings. — Just Me And Not Sorry

Dear You: Here 'tis. My daughter Margo and I thank you.

Rubber bridge much safer

By Oswald & James Jacoby
A good match-point player would go down at three no-trump in an effort to score overtricks. He would know that suits break 3-2 68 per cent of the time and that the odds were that West had led away from a diamond honor.

So he would play a low diamond from dummy. East would take his queen and lead back a club. South would rise with the ace and go after hearts. West would show out on the second heart lead whereupon South would cash three hearts and two spades, finesse against West's king of diamonds, get out for down one and a fair match-point score since lots of other players would be going down.

A rubber-bridge player would study the dummy for a while. If an optimist he might also duck that first diamond, but if he were a realist he would say that a game in the hand is a nice thing to have. Then he would rise with dummy's ace of diamonds, lead a low heart and wind up with two spades, five hearts, two minor-suit aces and game and rubber. 2 (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

COMMUNITY NEWS

Welcome Wagon

The Dixon Welcome Wagon Club met Thursday night and heard Mrs. W. H. Prince talk about the Senior Citizen Walk-In Center. The club donated a magazine subscription to the center.

Welcome Wagon is featuring a contest for its members. Ideas for the Petunia Festival float will be submitted on or before March 25 to Mrs. Robert Jacobson at 288-1235 or at the March meeting. The ideas will be voted on at the April meeting and a bicentennial gift will be awarded to the winning idea.

Las Vegas Night Activities were held Feb. 28 at Carl Shanks Garage. Games were played and prizes were awarded at the end of the evening. Prize winners were Mr. and Mrs. James Mitchell for first place, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Landreth for second, and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Larson won the booby prize.

The Service Club Olympics have been postponed until March 14, at Dixon High School from 1 to 5 p.m. For further information, call Mrs. Roger Landreth at 288-4818.

Couples Circle Dinners will be held March 27. Anyone not signed up may call Mrs. Tom Engle, at 288-5202, for reservations.

Any newcomer who has not had a call from the Welcome Wagon Hostess and would like one should call Mrs. Dennis Bulfer, at 284-3402.

Meals on Wheels

The newly incorporated group, Meals on Wheels of Dixon, met recently to elect officers. The group was formerly known as Meals on Wheels, associated with FISH and is a non-profit organization.

The new officers are: Mrs. Joseph Hermes, president; Mrs. Ed Mann, secretary; and Mrs. Patterson Curtis, treasurer.

Approximately 70 meals are prepared three times weekly at KSB Hospital and delivered by volunteers representing local churches.

UMW Prayer Group

First United Methodist Woman's Prayer Group will meet in Mrs. Tom Whitcomb's home, 309 W. Prospect, Wednesday at 9:30 a.m.

Dixon Cooties Auxiliary

The Dixon Military Order of Cooties Auxiliary met recently at Dixon Post 540 with Mrs. Clara Buch presiding.

Pro-tem officers were Nelda Daer, chaplain; Doris Gibbs, conductress; Mabel Clapper, guard; Miriam Schultz, fun chairman; Alice Siepp and Mabel Clapper, trustees.

Laura Belle Gibbons was voted on and accepted as a new member during the meeting. It was also voted to donate $10 to the Senior Citizen Drop-In Center.

Installation of new officers will be held March 26 at 8 p.m., at the Club Room. New officers are: Mrs. Frances Melchi, president; Mabel Clapper, service president; Miriam Schultz, junior vice president; Doris Gibbs, treasurer; Dorothy Stralow, chaplain; Mary Sathoff, conductress; Clara Buch, guard; Nichola Fowkes, Mabel Mosher, Hazel Cramer, trustees; Norma Voorhies, secretary.

The next meeting will be held March 25 at 8 p.m.

Dotys to observe 40th anniversary

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR DOTY

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Doty, Sterling, will celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary with an open house from 2 to 5 p.m., Sunday at St. John's Lutheran Church, Third Ave. and E. Seventh St., Sterling. Mr. Doty and the former Lillian Lott were married March 7, 1936. They have resided in Sterling all their married life. Mr. Doty was a heater for Northwestern Steel and Wire for 40 years until his retirement in August of 1975.

They are the parents of four children: Mrs. Leslie (Doris) Smith, Sterling; Thomas, Albany; Donald, Grand Detour; and Terry Lee, Dixon. They have six grandchildren. The couple requests that gifts be omitted.

60th anniversary to be observed

OREGON — Mr. and Mrs. George Loyd Barnum, North Riverside, will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary Sunday. Mr. Barnum and the former Jessie Francis Locke were married in Chicago, March 7, 1916.

They are the parents of two daughters: Mrs. Jessie Hinkle, Oregon; and Mrs. Dorothy Willott, LaGrange. They have four grandchildren.

Caring for Fine Furniture

Even fine furniture will soon look worn and unattractive if it's not given the proper care. Here are a few tips on caring for fine quality furniture pieces. Care for upholstered fabrics by vacuuming regularly. This will prevent dirt and soil from working their way in and becoming imbedded. Attend to stains and spills as soon as they occur. Have your upholstered furniture cleaned by a professional periodically.

Contrary to what you may have heard, marble finishes are not immune to soiling or scratches. In fact, it's even possible to break or chip your marble surface. If this does happen, be sure to have it repaired by a skilled marble craftsman. Always keep marble surfaces clean and dust free. Dust regularly with a damp cloth and wash twice a year with soap and warm water. Be sure to dry it thoroughly. For stubborn stains, you may have to use a commercial marble cleaner. Care for your slate finishes in the same way you'd care for marble. Try especially hard to avoid water rings as they're extremely difficult to remove from slate. Proper care is one way to keep your furniture looking attractive for years to come. Buying quality pieces will also assure you of a long life for your furniture. Come in and browse through our displays of fine quality furniture. NEXT WEEK — Read about: "Home Furnishing Terms."

Town and Country Art Show planned

By FRANCES G. REEVERTS
Lee Co. Extension Adviser
The Cooperative Extension Services of Lee and Ogle Counties will sponsor the 1976 Town and Country Art Show March 28 at Sauk Valley College.

The annual art shows were originated to develop cultural resources in Illinois and to provide the amateur artist an opportunity to exhibit his art work and to compete in county, regional and statewide competition.

Professional critiques given at the shows help to increase the artist's knowledge of techniques and forms of expression. Andrew Langoussis, Professor of Art, Rockford College, will serve as jurist and select a representative number of entries for the display at the regional art exhibition to be held at Northern Illinois University, June 22-28, 1976. Further judging will be done at the regional show to select the exhibits for the state show to be held in Urbana at the Lincoln Square Court in October.

All participants in the Town and Country Art Show will be competing at an adult level and should be at least 18 years of age. A $2 entry fee will be charged for each entry and adults will be limited to two works. The entries will be displayed in the General Dining Room at Sauk Valley College.

A children's division of art work from Dixon State School and Village of Progress, Oregon, will also be on display. A 50 cent per entry fee will be charged and participants will be limited to two entries.

All works entered in the show must have been completed since April of 1975. All work must be original and must be entered under the name of the artist. An individual may not enter more than one county Town and Country Art Show in a year.

Entries will be accepted in photography, painting, clay weaving, metal and original craftwork.

The Art Show will be open to the public from 2 to 5 p.m., on March 28 at Sauk Valley College. There will be no admission fee. A critique will be presented by Andrew Lagnoussis at 2:30 p.m. Blue ribbons will be awarded all of the winning exhibits. All hanging exhibits will be on display until noon April 8.

Entry forms, which contain detailed information, may be obtained by stopping at the County Extension Offices in Lee or Ogle Counties. They may also be obtained by writing the offices — Lee County Extension Service, Box 119, Amboy, 61310 or Ogle County Extension Service, Pines Road, Box 99, Oregon, 61061.

All entry forms should be forwarded to the Lee County Extension Service no later than March 23. Entries for the show will be received at Sauk Valley College from 9:30 until 11:30 a.m., on March 27, and they should be registered by March 23.

All amateur artists in Lee and Ogle Counties are welcome to participate.

People in the news

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Jimmy Arrowood, 43, one of the 97 presidential candidates registered with the Federal Elections Commission, thinks he has a new way of campaigning — by bicycle.

Arrowood, a house painter and filling-station attendant, says he will begin campaigning on his ten-speed bicycle in April. To pay for the campaign, he is trying to raise $500.

"I'm running for president of the United States because the little man deserves a voice today. I am a little man, and I am going to be heard," he says.

"I sure won't win, but I can stir some people into thinking, and that's good. If I get 10,000 votes, that will be a real milestone."

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — President Ford's son Jack will visit the University of Illinois campus Tuesday to boost his father's campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

The Ford campaign committee said young Ford also will hold a news conference in Champaign. He is scheduled to speak on campus in one of the student residence halls and will answer questions afterward.

ATLANTA (AP) — Roy Dickens sifts through Atlanta's garbage, looking for a key to the habits of the city's past residents.

Dickens is a Georgia State University archaeologist who tags along behind construction workers on Atlanta's rapid transit system, sifting the dirt to see what he can learn about the city's past.

He says his biggest find so far has been a 19th century garbage dump which yielded artifacts ranging from bottles to chicken bones.

"Our written history doesn't record the daily lives of the people, the common man, the industrial worker," he said. "We want to find out how they lived and what they had to do with making Atlanta what it is."

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Who is that man with the guitar and why is he sitting on top of that flagpole?

He is Frank Perkins, 19, of Weiser, Idaho, and for those who haven't been looking, he has been on top of the pole for 274 days — which he says is a record.

Perkins says he'll stay up there until the 4th of July as his contribution to the nation's 200th birthday.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE G-620: Sam Q., aged 28, is a professor at El Camino College.

"Dr. Crane," one of his colleagues informed me, "Sam says he originally was motivated to study psychology because of your Quiz Column in his hometown newspaper."

"And I have surveyed several hundred of my own students who likewise tell me their first interest in practical psychology resulted from reading your 'Worry Clinic' column."

"So I wish you'd prod parents to encourage their teen-agers (and even grammar schoolers) into following the helpful features in the daily newspaper."

"For adolescent newspaper readers not only are better readers than the children who ignore the newspaper, but they demonstrate a broader educational foundation in current events, psychology, medicine, business and many other subjects they will later study in college."

"University in Print"
Newspapers thus serve as your local "University in Print" with students raging in age from 5 to 100.

"But, Dr. Crane," you may protest, "how can a 5-year-old become interested in the daily newspaper?"

Well, there are two very practical ways.

First, children like comics, so you ambitious parents can use that route as the entering wedge in developing their fondness for the printed page.

Second, many college students say their clever mothers gave them blunt ended scissors when they were kindergarten tots and urged them to cut out my columns so their mothers could make scrapbooks of them.

Remember, it isn't enough to skimp and save for a college insurance policy for your kiddies.

For, unless you parents stimulate their interest in educational subjects via the daily newspaper, plus books and other cultural aids, your teen-agers will likely drop out of school before they ever reach college age.

Ambitious parents (especially mothers) are usually the reason why young people enter college!

Alas, mothers who are indifferent to cultural things, thus fail to motivate their children to focus on a future university education.

Ambitious mothers may be poor and not even high school graduates themselves yet they can implant religious idealism and a thirst for knowledge in their kiddies.

Lincoln's mother must have done so, for when she died, 9-year-old Abe was distressed over the fact no clergyman was available to preach her funeral.

Several weeks later, when an itinerant pastor visited the home, Abraham Lincoln coaxed this preacher to go out in the woods where his mother was buried and deliver a belated funeral sermon for her!

And Abraham Lincoln's step-mother also nurtured his desire for knowledge, so he became a smarter lawyer than many who had graduated from Harvard.

For Abraham Lincoln not only mixed "Horse Sense" with his own quest for an education, but he would have devoured every page of this newspaper, had it been available to him.

STYLE 4240
Sizes 4-16 $85.00

Beautiful, three-stripes-of-color braid trim and matching belt (with shining closure) adorn this Voyager West. The fly front hides buttons and buttonholes so nothing interferes with the eye's fashion travel. Raglan sleeves give a relaxed fit that goes easily over jackets and left-from-winter sweaters. This half-cotton, half-polyester fabric is completely washable.

Youthcraft

STYLE 4242
Sizes 6-18 $85.00

A triple cross, but in the nicest way possible. It's pure fashion and in the front stitched detail on this Voyager West. This single-breasted style also features another "plus"—that of complete washability. A shiny metal ornament appears at each cuff and at the center back. No cinch-belt needed because the fit does it all.

Youthcraft

STYLE 3440
Sizes 6-18 $69.00

Fantasy, 100% polyester in a soft-feel fabric weave. Totally washable, this Voyager West is in the trenchcoat mode with raglan sleeves done shirt-style with a buttoned cuff. There's a same-material belt, loose front and back yokes, and a single row of buttons down the center front.

Gamel and Baird win county speaking contest

Bennett Gamel of Dixon and Suzanne Baird of Franklin Grove were named winners of the annual Lee County 4-H Public Speaking Activity held recently.

Miss Shirley Camp, Extension Adviser in Carroll County and Mr. Robert Lowe, District Director of Lee County Soil and Water Conservation District, critiqued the talks.

Miss Baird of the Petunia City 4-H Club entitled her talk, "Now Is The Time." Mr. Gamel, a member of the Dixon Falcons 4-H Club, spoke on "My 4-H Experiences and Observations." They were selected to represent Lee County at the 1976 Illinois State Fair in August.

Named as first alternate to the State Fair was Leslie Smith of Dixie Girls 4-H Club, who talked on "Personality Rainbow."

Winner of the Junior Division was Lori Ely of Amboy who spoke on "4-H Offices."

Other Blue Ribbon winners were: Terri Contreras, Carol Harden, Nancy Chamberlain, Kathy Brophy, Joan Frost, Sara Stover and Monica McGinnis from Dixon; Cindy Albrecht of Ashton and Laura Hargitt of Amboy.

Also participating were: Carrie Wilkens, Sharon Chamberlain, Jane Frost, and Linda Harden of Dixon; Anne Barlass of Franklin Grove; and Judy Jackson of Amboy.

Beef day at U of I Saturday

Cow-calf and feedlot research reports will highlight the University of Illinois Beef Cattle Day Saturday at the Urbana-Champaign Campus, says Wayne Wubenna, Lee County Extension adviser.

The day's events will begin at 9 a.m. with an open house at the university beef barns located south of the Assembly Hall. Research reports will begin at 10 a.m. in the Law Auditorium, located at Pennsylvania Avenue and Sixth Street, Urbana.

Al Neumann, U. of I. animal scientist, will evaluate both conventional spring-calving and intensive fall-calving systems and will discuss corn residue feeding. E. E. Hatfield, U. of I. animal scientist, will discuss protein quality for growing calves and finishing steers, industrial by-products and feed lot waste as a nutrient source for feedlot cattle and remensin.

Gary Minish, animal scientist at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, will speak on efficient cattle and cattle programs for the future. The program will also include reports from the Illinois Beef Improvement Federation and the Illinois Beef Industry Council.

Program proceedings will be available from the U. of I. Department of Animal Science after Saturday.

The Beef Day program will adjourn at 2:30 p.m. so participants can attend the U. of I.-Iowa basketball game at 3 p.m. Tickets may be purchased for $3.50 at the door or $3 in advance from the U. of I. Athletic Ticket Office, 100 Assembly Hall, Champaign, Ill. 61820.

Prune apples in March

The best time to prune apple trees is before the buds start to grow. (During a normal season, March and early April in Northern Illinois).

The central leader system of pruning develops a tree with a strong, straight trunk six to eight feet tall. With such a system, 12 to 15 major branches or scaffolds are spaced around the trunk to form a balanced and rounded tree.

Since it is usually not practical to convert older trees to the central leader system, training should be developed during the first five years the tree is in the home orchard.

During the second five-year period after planting, prune lightly to maintain shape and bearing wood. After trees are 10 years old, they need heavier pruning to prevent them from becoming too tall, too wide, or too dense.

Garden schools

Two schools on Vegetable Gardening will be conducted in Dixon by the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service on March 8 and 15th.

University Horticulture Specialist will present the program live, from Urbana on the Telenet Educational Network, both the classes to be held in Dixon at the Loveland Community Building.

For registration information contact the Cooperative Extension Office in Amboy.

Both sessions start at 7:30 p.m.

Controlling pesticide use

By M. T. BARLASS

Lee Co. Extension Adviser

The use of pesticides on farms has become a common practice in recent years. Although most chemicals are used to control weeds, a large portion of the total costs also go for insect control.

The Federal Environmental Pesticide Control Act (the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act of 1947, as amended in 1972) regulates the use of pesticides to protect humans and the environment. It does so by extending federal controls to the actual application of pesticides by the user, and by regulating both intrastate and interstate marketing of pesticide products.

All pesticides must be classified for either general or restricted use. A person must be certified to use a pesticide classified for restricted use. Competency for certification of commercial pesticide applicators and operators is determined by written examination, and competency of private pesticide operators by satisfactory completion of a

4-H room-a-rama to be Saturday

"Room-O-Rama," a 4-H Home Furnishings and Flower Arranging Clinic, will be held on Saturday at the Lee County 4-H Center on Rt. 30. The clinic begins with registration at 9:15 a.m. and will conclude by 3 p.m.

The morning session will feature flower arranging, picture framing and hanging. During the afternoon there will be two concurrent sessions—one focuses on beginning units and the other on advanced units of the Home Furnishings project area. Those attending "Room-O-Rama" will make an item to take home, see a display of completed projects and accessories ideas and hear explanations of what each unit involves.

All 4-H members, moms and leaders are invited to attend; there is no charge. Each person should bring a sack lunch. Beverages will be provided.

4-H poster program

"4-H is Action," "4-H Freedom to Be," or "4-H Brings Out the Best" are the themes around which young people in Ogle County and throughout the country are designing posters for the 1976 National 4-H Poster Art program.

Bob Getzelman, Ogle County Extension adviser, says these three themes were selected from more than 170 suggestions made by the delegates to the 1975 National 4-H Congress.

The Poster Art Program encourages young people to use their creative abilities to communicate their ideas about 4-H to the public, says Bob.

Although the program is not a contest, the 1977 4-H poster design will be based on ideas presented in the posters selected for the 1976 National 4-H Poster Art Exhibition. That Exhibition will be held in December at the National 4-H Congress in Chicago.

Young people in Ogle County interested in participating in the poster art program can get additional information at the county Extension office.

training session.

To qualify for certification, pesticide applicators and operators are expected to (1) understand labels and labeling information and the classification of pesticides (general or restricted use); (2) know the causes of pesticide accidents and how to guard against injury; (3) realize the need for protective clothing and equipment; (4) recognize the symptoms of pesticide poisoning and be able to administer appropriate first-aid treatment; (5) know how to handle and store pesticides properly; (6) be aware of the influence of pesticides on the environment; (7) be able to identify common pests to be controlled; (8) be familiar with pesticide formulations; (9) know the common techniques of application; and (10) know how to calibrate application equipment.

There are several laws regulating the use of pesticides in Illinois, and several state agencies are involved in their administration. These laws and their effects upon pesticide applicators and operators are discussed below.

The Custom or Public Application of Pesticides Act regulates pesticide application. This law is administered by the Illinois State Department of Agriculture.

A Commercial Pesticide Applicator License is issued to a person who applies a pesticide for any purpose on property other than that owned, rented or leased by himself or by his employer.

A Commercial Pesticide Operator License is issued to a person who is employed or directly supervised by a person holding a Commercial Applicator License.

Then there is the State Pesticide Control Act. The Pesticides Control Act designates the State Departments of Agriculture and Public Health as responsible for controlling the labeling, sale, use, and application of pesticides to prevent the contamination of water and the environment.

The State Department of Agriculture is responsible for the control of pesticides used in the production, protection, care, storage or transportation of agricultural commodities.

The State Department of Public Health is responsible for the regulation of pesticides used to control pests of importance to public health, such as household pests, disease-carrying insects and related animals, and rodents, birds, and other mammals. All rules and regulations proposed by these agencies must be submitted to and approved by the Interagency Committee on Pesticides before they become effective.

Farmers have to be certified to use these restricted pesticides, no later than 1977.

A person wishing to become certified as a Private Pesticide Operator must satisfactorily complete a training session conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. The training schools are held at irregular intervals by the county extension advisers. An official of the State Department of Agriculture will be present at the training session to register those attending. Each person seeking certification must sign a permit stating that he understands the information in the Illinois Pesticide Applicator Study Guide and promises to use pesticides according to label directions, and to store and dispose of pesticides properly.

Persons in the following occupations can qualify for certification as Private Pesticide Operators: Agriculturalists; canning company fieldmen; Christmas tree growers; farmers; floriculturists; foresters (private); fruit growers; home gardeners; nurserymen; orchardists; ranchers; seed producer fieldmen; seed treaters (who treat their own seed); vegetable growers; and vineyardists.

Grounds keepers in cemeteries, county or township weed commissioners, golf course maintenance men, foresters (public land), ground maintenance men of private and public establishments, park district maintenance men, and others who apply pesticides in areas where the public has access must obtain certification as Commercial Pesticide Applicators or Operators.

A series of 11 schools for private certification will be held from March 22-30 in Northwestern Illinois by the Extension Services.

In the Lee County area, sessions will be held at Rochelle, Sterling and Amboy. Dates and times will be published soon. Contact our office for registration information.

Sheep tour

La Salle, Bureau and Lee County sheep producers will discuss their feeding and management practices on a tour March 11.

The tour will begin in Lee County at 9 a.m. on the Don Ramsdell farm, located 1 1/4 miles south of Franklin Grove or five miles north of the Lee County 4-H Center on the blacktop. Ramsdell's operation consists of purebred Hampshires, Suffolks, Shropshire, and Southdowns.

The second tour stop will be at 10:30 a.m. on the Dean Otterbach farm, Rt. 1, Mendota, located 3/4-mile northwest of Mendota on Rt. 52 and 1/4 mile west on the gravel road. Otterbach has about a 300 head commercial ewe flock.

Following lunch at the Loft Restaurant in Mendota, a discussion of producers' questions about sheep production will be held.

The third tour stop will be on the Tony Pillar farm, Rt. 1, Mendota. Pillar is a lamb buyer and commercial lamb feeder.

The tour may be joined at any stop and further information is available at the Lee County Extension Office.

Nitrogen fertilization of wheat

Spring applications of nitrogen fertilizer on wheat should be made just before the wheat turns green, says R. G. Hoeft, University of Illinois Extension agronomist.

Earlier topdressing should be avoided on frozen, sloped fields. The fertilizer may be lost through runoff during heavy rains.

Wheat needs nitrogen early in the growing season, adds Hoeft. The soil usually has not warmed enough for soil microbes to release much nitrogen from decaying plant residues and soil organic matter.

The nitrogen rate will vary depending on soil type, variety, and, to some extent, past and future cropping practices, observes Hoeft. The following recommendations are for stiff-strawed varieties in fields with no alfalfa or clover seedings: —Soils low in capacity to supply nitrogen; inherently low in organic matter (light-colored); no manure, alfalfa, or clover in the preceding years — 70 to 90 pounds of N per acre. —Soils medium in capacity to supply nitrogen; moderately dark-colored soils — 50 to 70 pounds of N per acre. —Soils high in capacity to supply nitrogen; all deep dark-colored soils; light-colored soils that regularly have legume or manure — 40 to 50 pounds of N per acre.

These recommendations are for the total Fall and Spring nitrogen application, says Hoeft. The amount of N applied last fall should be subtracted from the amount put on this Spring.

Stiff-strawed varieties planted as a companion crop for legume or legume-grass seedings should be fertilized with 20 to 30 pounds less N. This will prevent unusually heavy top growth which competes unfavorably with young forage seedlings.

All dry nitrogen fertilizers and liquid nitrogen solutions not containing free ammonia are acceptable for top-dressing wheat, says Hoeft. However, precautions need to be taken when using urea or materials containing urea.

If temperatures are greater than 50 degrees F. and soil is dry or drying rapidly, there is a potential for significant nitrogen loss from urea. It is best to apply it when temperatures are colder than 50 degrees F. Precipitation can then move urea into the soil and eliminate potential loss.

Workmen's comp affects farm labor

The potential accidental injury liability of many Illinois farmers who employ labor has been significantly altered by recent state legislation. Furthermore, many farmers will be subject to a possible fine if they do not take certain action now, says D. L. Uchtmann, University of Illinois Extension specialist in agricultural law.

Effective July 1, 1975, an employee injured while working for a farmer who employs 245 man-days or more of labor per year is entitled to workmen's compensation benefits, says Uchtmann. These benefits are based upon the nature of the injury and the amount of the worker's weekly salary.

The farmer is liable to pay these workmen's compensation benefits even though he was not at fault or not responsible for the injury. Therefore, the standard comprehensive liability insurance coverage is not adequate protection from this new potential liability.

The 245 man-days of labor per year include each day in which an employee performed any work for pay. A full day or a partial day of work by an employee equals one man-day but does not include work performed by the farmer or members of his immediate family residing with him, Uchtmann explains.

Farmers who employ 245 man-days of labor per year must either take out a workmen's compensation insurance policy or make application as a self-insurer to the Illinois Industrial Commission, 160 N. LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill., 60600. In either case the Industrial Commission will notify the farmer when the arrangement has been approved. Failure to take one step or the other is unlawful and subjects the farmer to a possible fine.

Workmen's Compensation programs are designed to provide employees with prompt and adequate compensation for accidental, work-related injuries. A standard schedule is used to predetermine how much compensation will be paid by the employer to the employee for each type of injury. This compensation is paid regardless of who may be at fault. The system bypasses court proceedings, strong burdens of proof, and unpredictable damage awards found in the common law method recovery, Uchtmann concludes.

Estate planning seminar

D. L. Uchtmann, University of Illinois specialist in Ag Law, will conduct a special seminar on Estate Planning and Land Transfer at Emerald Hill on Thursday, at 1:30 p.m.

This meeting, according to M. T. Barlass, Lee Co. Extension adviser, is for farmers and landowners who want to find out some of the alternatives for setting up a workable solution to the problem of intergenerational transfer of farms.

"Continuity of the farming operation does not have to be limited between as we move from father to son," Barlass said, "but it takes planning to get the details worked out so both parties get a fair shake. The meeting will be open to the general public.

Our exclusive additive ACA yields an average of eight extra bushels per acre.

Without ACA With ACA

Drawings based on actual photography.

ACA gets your corn off to a quick start. It produces wider, greener leaves, and a stronger root system that result in greater plant production.

In fact, tests conducted in the Midwest corn belt showed an average increase in yield of 8.2 bushels per acre when Amoco's anhydrous ammonia with ACA was used, compared to anhydrous ammonia without ACA. Based on these test results, you can expect a yield increase 95% of the time averaging between 6.5 and 9.8 bushels per acre.

The Doctor Says:

Pinworm reinfection often occurs in smaller children

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB—I am in need of answers about pinworms. My 4-year-old daughter has been infected at least a half dozen times within a year. At first it seemed like every couple of months they would recur. The doctor gave me medicines to treat her. Now within six weeks after the last dose she is infected again. It seems that the medicine always takes care of them because I check with the flashlight at night.

She always starts out with a bad stomach ache, then I know enough to check her out again. I have four other children who have had them only occasionally.

When I give the medicine the entire family takes it. I told the doctor about the frequent recurrence. He said sometimes the pinworms stick up in the appendix and don't get treated. He stated that sometimes when the appendix is removed it is crawling with worms. He also stated that the worms can cause symptoms of appendicitis, but that they did not remove an appendix just for pinworms.

I have also heard stories about washing hands before eating. What I can't figure out is why one child in the family is so susceptible. An answer would bring relief to our minds.

DEAR READER—Pinworms are a very common infection. Fortunately they usually cause more discomfort than harm. The most common symptom is itching around the anal area.

The female worm crawls out of the rectal area at night and this is what produces the itching feeling.

There is some disagreement as to whether pinworms actually cause indigestion or upset stomach as you suggest in your letter. It is true that the worms lodge in the blind end of the large colon (cecum) in the area where the appendix is, but they may also be present in much of the large bowel and small intestine. These are usually eliminated with adequate treatment.

The reason that recurrences are so frequent is that they infection is so widespread. Most likely your 4-year-old has not learned proper hygiene yet. In small children, scratching and putting unclean hands to the mouth is a frequent way of re-infecting oneself with another cycle of eggs.

The eggs can also live on bedding and other areas but usually only for a day or two because they don't survive dry air very well.

The best thing I can suggest is to make a real effort to teach your small child better hygiene. Be sure at the beginning of treatment that she is completely bathed and clean and has clean underwear, clean bedding and that this is carried out regularly. Certainly all of the children should wash their hands carefully before eating snacks or otherwise putting their hands to the mouth. When one child in the family is infected it's usually a good idea to treat the entire family as you have been doing.

Muslim sect in financial bind, says Muhammad

CHICAGO (AP) — Despite reports that the Nation of Islam is independently wealthy, a severe "cash flow problem" has created a $4.5-million deficit for the religious sect, its chief minister says.

Wallace D. Muhammad, leader of the religious body known as the Black Muslims, disclosed the group's financial problems Sunday during the organization's annual Savior's Day activities.

"We're in debt because of a cash flow problem," Muhammad told an audience of 2,000. "But we are grateful that we have been able to trace the problem as quick as we have and then act to develop programs to correct this problem which has been festering unnoticed for 10 years."

He attributed the problem to the Muslims' failure to develop an effective accounting system to monitor income and expenditures.

The chief minister added that he was surprised to learn of the group's financial status, but said he knew his father, the late Elijah Muhammad who founded the Nation of Islam during the Depression, had deliberately planned to leave the religious sect in debt upon his death in 1975.

"He did this to show us (Muslims), what we can have," Muhammad said. "But at the same time he made sure that we'd have to work to keep it."

Muhammad said the group has managed to cut its liabilities to $4.5 million during the past two years after they reached a peak of $9.5 million in 1973. A $3-million loan obtained to help purchase the group's No. 2 Mosque in Chicago remains the Muslims' largest single liability, he added.

Muhammad said the group has developed an 18-month plan to deal with the cash deficit in a "sound and realistic" way.

As part of the plan, he said the group has streamlined its payroll and reorganized its business priorities.

Sunday's disclosure came eight months after Muhammad released information concerning the group's assets.

In his first public appearance after assuming the chief minister's position, Muhammad said the group had reached the economic stability necessary to make some of its assets known.

By ROBERT H. NELLIS

Comments by Lawrence Bruckner, a candidate seeking the Republican nomination to run for Lee County state's attorney, Monday, caused Herbert Henning, chairman Lee County Republican Central Committee, to suggest Patrick Ward, state's attorney, might want to respond. Ward is not a candidate for re-election.

Bruckner cited statistics for 1974 which revealed of 265 felony cases filed, there were 85 convictions and commented, "this seems rather low and maybe some of the cases were dismissed which should not have been."

In other remarks, Bruckner pledged to work with the law enforcement agencies to prevent the commission of crimes.

He noted "many people are upset with judges because of the sentences they hand down," and suggested the state's attorney could work with judges to provide "leadership in keeping repeat criminals off the street."

Bruckner also pledged to work with young people to help them from becoming involved in breaking laws, noting 101 juvenile cases were filed in the county during 1974.

He noted the state's attorney is the advisory counsel for the County Board and observed the county is losing population faster than any other one in North-west Illinois and suggested his office could "help provide good job opportunities for young people so they will not leave the county." To counter this population trend Bruckner asserted, "There is a need for a progressive force of leadership."

He told Republicans gathered in Ashton for a Meet-the-Candidates night, he would work to build up the Republican party.

His opponent is David Mandrgoc, now first assistant state's attorney, who said he agrees with what Bruckner said, except that the first responsibility of the state's attorney is to be a prosecutor.

Without mentioning Bruckner's contention some cases may have been dismissed which should not have been, Mandrgoc contended some cases were filed which should not have been.

He noted in 1975 there were 219 felony cases filed in Lee County, down from 265 a year before and reported, "Lee County was the only one in Northwest Illinois to experience a major drop in the number of felony cases filed in 1975 from the number in 1974."

Mandrgoc revealed felonies, misdemeanors and traffic citations constitute 83 per cent of all cases filed by the state's attorney's office.

In addition to this Mandrgoc cited there is a large number of persons who come to the office with various kinds of complaints or seeking help.

Concluding, Mandrgoc declared, "In the literally thousands of cases I have handled, I have had great success."

Ward was at the meeting to speak in behalf of the candidacy of Thomas Moran, Waukegan, who is seeking the Republican nod to run for justice of the Illinois Supreme Court from the Second District.

Addressing himself to the criticism of his office, Ward noted, "Parents and friends of felons who are prosecuted by my office often complain that this county is too tough and tell me we are more interested in sending persons to the penitentiary than in giving them a second chance."

The state's attorney asserted, "Some people must go to jail. If a young person gets into trouble for the first time, he should have a chance to reform."

"But the second time he is arrested, it depends what he did, if he is to get probation."

Ward cited there is a difference whether the second offender was the burglar who broke into a property and took $10,000 or whether he was a 17-year-old lookout for a burglar who broke in and took a check book and a blade from an electric knife. The latter one, he counseled, should get another chance.

"We have prosecuted someone from every town in this county and we have sent some persons to the penitentiary from every town in the county," recounted Ward.

"Paw Paw was a mess until Sheriff Ray Nehring straightened it out," reported the state's attorney.

"There were seven arrests there, seven convictions and seven sentences and that stopped the trouble Paw Paw people were having with burglaries," recited the county prosecutor.

"I believe my office has done what the people of the county voted for us to do," concluded Ward.

Compared to these exchanges the other candidates' appearances were almost just intro-

Nine-day sentence for arson

A Rochelle man accused of arson was sentenced Monday to nine days in Lee County jail and ordered to make restitution for damage done in a car fire.

Anton Puttbre, 30, appeared before Associate Judge Alan Cargerman and was convicted on an amended charge of criminal damage to property. He was arrested in connection with a fire started inside an automobile owned by Gleada Girtman, Rochelle. The interior of the 1969 Chevrolet was gutted in the fire Feb. 21.

In other dispositions, a charge of burglary placed against Mary Goldwire, Rt. 3, by Dixon Police Feb. 5 was dismissed on a motion from the state's attorney's office.

A charge of disorderly conduct placed against Bruce Hopkins, Paw Paw, by sheriff's deputies March 20, 1975, was dismissed on a motion from the state's attorney's office.

to build a lift station to substantiate their claim."

Burke offered an explanation, "This town is not that fast a track. If they expend $30,000 I understand why they want time to develop the property."

Gearhart finally spoke up, prefacing his remarks with a statement, "I didn't know we were going to have so many public hearings on this."

He continued he wanted the five-year guarantee to protect someone who bought a lot from him. "I want to tell the buyer he has sewer reserved for five years. It's for the protection of the people we sell lots to."

Naylor closed the discussion with the statement that Gearhart had plans for developing the area and that Gearhart had shown them to him.

The council opened and placed on file two bids for the old city garage at 503 Monroe Ave. Michael Schrauth was the high bidder at $25,600. Ambrose Reuters submitted a $15,500 bid.

In other action the council: —Approved a resolution confirming the reappointment of Myron Olson to the Water Board for a five-year term.

—Approved another resolution naming Mrs. Rita A. Crundwell deputy city clerk. Mrs. Crundwell replaces Mrs. Albert Callahan, who has resigned. Mrs. Crundwell took the oath of office from Mayor Naylor after approval of the resolution.

—Referred to the Plan Commission a petition by Robert L. and Virginia Taylor for special use of property at 1806 W. First St., for a three-chair beauty salon.

—Approved payment of labor and outside claims in the amount of $51,402.96.

Arrested after shot fired inside car

OREGON — Two Lee County residents were arrested by Mt. Morris Police Monday night after one of them fired a shot through an air-conditioning duct inside a parked car.

Being held in Ogle County jail today was Allen P. Brooks, 18, Nachusa. He is accused of two counts of unlawful use of a weapon, reckless conduct and possession of liquor as a minor.

The owner of the 1973 Pontiac, Roberta L. Kyker, 21, 122 1/2 E. Fourth St. Dixon, is charged with having no fire-arms owners identification card and two counts of unlawful use of a weapon.

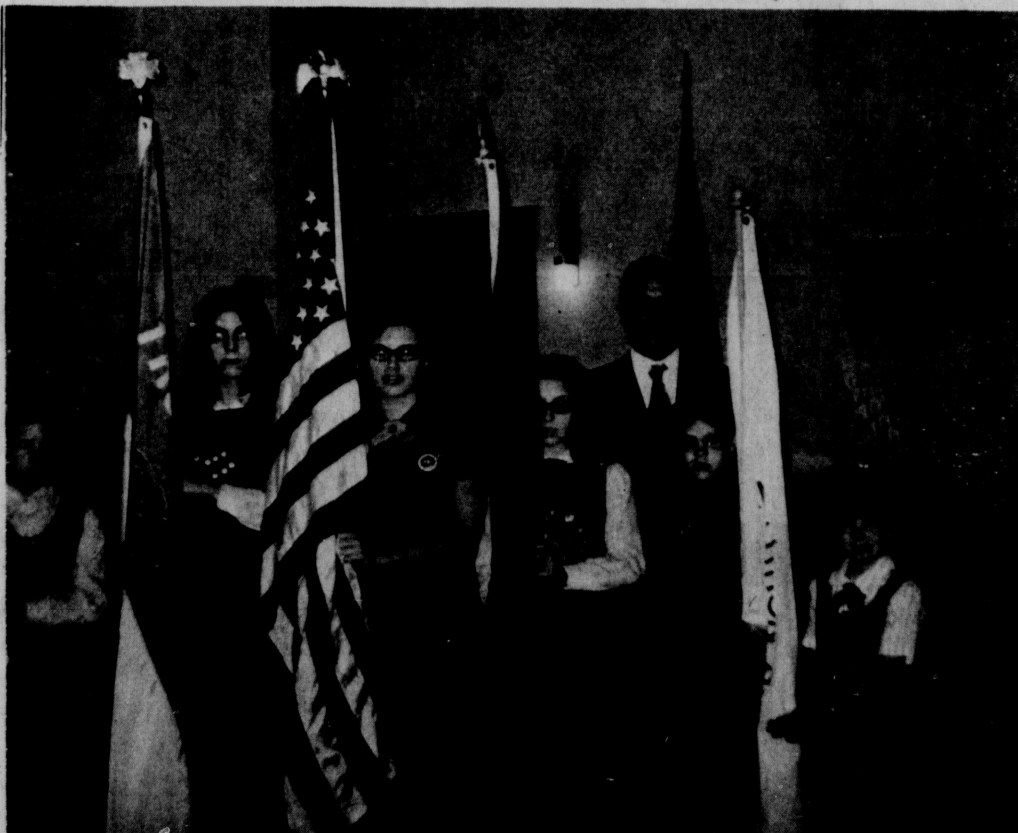

Mt. Morris Police were called to the parking lot at Kable Printing Co., at 9:10 p.m. Police learned the two drove into the lot and while Kyker was talking with a friend near her car, Brooks reached into the glove compartment where a .38 caliber revolver was kept and fired the gun into the air-conditioning vent on the passenger side of the car. No one was injured, however, Brooks was taken to KSB Hospital by Mt. Morris ambulance where he was examined and released.

Kyker was freed on bond. Brooks went before Associate Judge Alan Cargerman this morning and was ordered held under $7,000 bond. The case was continued to March 19.

A memorial has been established for the church.

Prisoner is captured in Sterling

Chester Sanders, 25, was taken into custody today in Sterling as Lee County Sheriff's deputies and Sterling Police converged on his mother's home.

In April, 1974, Sanders had been sentenced to one and one-third to three years in the Joliet State Penitentiary on a conviction of aggravated battery. He was released last year on an appeal bond and reportedly failed to return to custody. The Federal Bureau of Investigation had been called in to aid in locating him.

Authorities said that Sanders was located in Sterling earlier today. In attempting to apprehend Sanders a chase ensued and deputies said they followed him to his mother's Sterling residence at 905 Woodburn Avenue. According to reports, Sanders was found hiding under floor joints at the residence.

Sheriff Raymond Nehring said that upon Sander's apprehension, he was immediately returned to the Joliet facility.

Walker moves toward political showdown

By BARRY HANSON
Associated Press Writer
CHARLESTON, Ill. (AP) — With the confident air of an old West gunslinger, Gov. Daniel Walker is moving toward a showdown with the traditional powerhouses of Democratic politics in Illinois.

On the March 16 primary election ballot, Walker's opponent for the gubernatorial nomination is Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett, a rotund, affable veteran of more than 15 years in statewide office.

But Walker makes no secret that he believes his real opponent is Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, whose patronage-greased political organization guarantees hundreds of thousands of votes for the candidates he favors, which include Howlett. "This for me is a very, very tough campaign," says Walker, who bucked the Chicago organization four years ago in an upset primary election victory over Daley-backed Paul Simon, now a congressman from Southern Illinois. Walker went on to beat incumbent Republican Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and to assume his first elected office.

Walker sees himself as a breath of fresh air clearing out the smoke filled rooms where political decisions in Illinois traditionally have been made. He says electing Howlett would be returning to "the old ways."

But some Walker critics accuse him of trying to put together a political organization of his own as a launching pad for a shot at the presidency.

In fact, Walker has slates of national convention delegates committed to him on the ballot throughout the state, but asserts "unequivocally ... no reservations, ifs, ands or buts

... they are not bound to me." The governor says his purpose in forming the slates was to prevent the election of delegates who will vote the way Daley wants them to.

The theme of Walker's independence from the mayor, and his professed disdain for concentrated political power, is pounded into audience after audience as the 53-year-old former corporate lawyer skips from one end of the state to the other.

With seemingly endless energy, Walker puts in 14-hour days campaigning in bowling alleys, shopping centers, interviews with reporters and appearances before various groups.

His campaign is well-organized, well-financed and run by professionals.

In 1972 he tied a red and white bandana around his neck and walked 1,200 miles through Illinois, out of relative political obscurity and into the governor's office.

This year a state plane, for which the state is reimbursed by the campaign, whisks the governor from stop to stop.

"Hi, I'm Dan," the governor says over and over as he makes his way from lane to lane in a Charleston bowling alley. He is instantly recognized by nearly everyone and most greet him warmly. But, one woman says Walker is interrupting her game.

"You know, that's the first time that's ever happened," Walker said later in the car speeding to the next appearance. An aide assures him: "Her husband probably works for Howlett."

In interviews, talk shows and question and answer sessions, Walker is asked about the death penalty and crime, highways and schools, marijuana and gun control.

But the governor's strategists have determined the single most important issue to taxpayers is state spending and taxes.

"If we keep going down the road of more spending and more government, we're heading in the same direction as Great Britain and New York City, and I don't want to go that way," Walker told a student audience.

Walker boasts that he is the first governor in 27 years not to raise taxes. He says his budget for the next fiscal year again will call for no tax increase and that he "believes" one won't be necessary the year after that.

But his hard line on spending has cost him support, for example, among educators who fought a bitter, unsuccessful battle last fall to get the General Assembly to override Walker's reduction of state aid to local school districts.

Most labor leaders in the state have endorsed Howlett, largely because of the school aid issue.

And the maverick governor refused to seek the support of the state Democratic organization, of which Daley is the de facto head. Only a handful of the state's 102 Democratic county chairmen are counted in Walker's corner.

Key ammunition used by Howlett against Walker are charges of administration by divisive, confrontation methods and mismanagement in some aspects of state government.

Walker acknowledges some administrative problems, such as long delays in processing unemployment claims, but contends his overall performance warrants re-nomination.

To get the job done, Walker's campaign strategists say they would like a turnout of at least 1.6 million voters for the Democratic primary, some 170,000 more than voted in the 1972 primary contest.

Traditionally, as the statewide vote gets larger, the Chicago's strength is diluted.

To whip up more voter interest, Walker has put together a slate to run against organization-endorsed candidates.

The Walker camp, which was beginning to bemoan its few public endorsements, has been buoyed in recent weeks by headlines heralding reports of his opponent's outside employment and unaccounted-for campaign funds.

But the governor, who plays poker with the same acumen as he plays politics, says: "It can always change with the next hand."

$9.9 billion budget proposed

million general fund boost by changing the way taxes are collected from large businesses.

The proposed changes involve reducing the time that large retailers and other employers would be allowed to keep sales and income tax receipts before they are turned over to the state.

Here are highlights of Walker's proposed budget:

—Elementary and secondary education: $1.7 billion, an increase of $149 million.

—Higher Education: $818 million, an increase of $42 million.

—Public Aid: $1.994 billion, an increase of $86.7 million.

—Transportation: $1.9 billion, a decrease of $328 million.

—Mental Health: $388 million, an increase of $19 million.

—Corrections: $102.7 million, an increase of $9.4 million.

One of the most controversial elements of the budget is expected aid to local schools, over which bitter battles have been fought in the General Assembly the last two years.

The budget for elementary and secondary schools is $149 million more than last year, but $178 million less than the State Board of Education requested.

Walker said his budget will mean an average state expenditure per pupil of $773 and will bring to 48 per cent the state's share of educating its children.

But the board wanted an increase of $327 million, planning to use $178 million of the increase to fund fully a school aid distribution formula approved by the General Assembly in 1973.

That formula, used to determine how much state aid goes to each school district, was to be implemented gradually over a four-year period ending in fiscal 1977.

However, Walker said he will back pending legislation that would extend the implementation period an additional year, which would enable the state to increase state aid more gradually.

The governor did not specify how the $149 million increase in his budget should be allocated, leaving up to the Board of Education and the legislature how much should be used for the distribution formula and how much for other educational programs.

The Office of Education also had asked for an additional $100 million for the current year, but Walker requested only $2.2 million.

Walker's proposed budget for the Department of Public Aid is based on an anticipated slowdown in the rapidly increasing caseloads, which led to a request for another $142.6 million to pay welfare bills this year.

Director James Trainor told reporters he is "totally satisfied" with the budget, which includes authorization to hire an additional 1,100 employees but includes no money for a cost-of-living boost for recipients.

The budget proposal for the state's colleges and universities was about $42 million less than requested by the Board of Higher Education. Walker rejected the board's call for a tuition increase.

The state's capital program, which includes construction of buildings, highways, sewage treatment plants, recreation facilities and schools, will total $2.23 billion, $635 million less than last year, Walker said.

The governor said last year's capital appropriations were high, and "we're now proposing to go back to a normal level."

The budget was not supposed to be made public until the General Assembly formally received it Wednesday afternoon. However, two Chicago newspapers protested that a third Chicago newspaper already had published budget stories and the governor's press office lifted the embargo.

The General Assembly will consider the governor's budget when it returns early next month for its spring session.

Walker budget labeled

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Daniel Walker's $9.9 billion state budget for the next fiscal year was called "phony" today by the chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Walker announced Monday his proposed budget is about $224 million less than the budget approved by the General Assembly for the current fiscal year.

"Of all the phony budgets, this one is probably the phonest of all," Sen. Thomas Hynes, D-Chicago, told a news conference.

"The lead in his press releases shows a cut in the budget, yet spending is up by about $400 million. It's just a paper cut," the senator said.

Hynes, whose committee will consider the budget in the Senate, is also chairman of the bipartisan Senate Committee on Fiscal Accountability, formed last fall to investigate the state's finances.

In an interim report prepared before Walker's budget was announced and released today, the committee said a private consulting firm has determined that from $200 million to $500 million could be saved by an overall review of state government. Most of the waste, it said, is in the Department of Public Aid.

One of the committee members, Sen. Kenneth Buzbee, D-Carbondale, insisted that there were no political reasons for releasing the report two weeks before the March 16 Illinois primary election. Walker is being challenged for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination by Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett.

"We are not by any means doing this for political motivations," Buzbee said. "It had to come out now."

What kinds of consumer discounts are available to Illinois seniors? How can I find out about them? — T. P. Dear Miss P:

A variety of senior discounts are available in many Illinois communities — and the range of reduced rates and free services may differ significantly from one area to the next. Much depends on the interest of local merchants and the activity of senior citizens' organizations.

In Springfield, for example, seniors enjoy discounts at the zoo, band concerts, municipal golf and swimming areas, certain movie theaters, high school sports and cultural events, and some drugstores. These are typical of the kinds of discounts offered — recreation, the arts, entertainment, store purchases. Local businesses, including beauty shops, dry cleaners, restaurants, travel agencies, repair shops and furniture stores, may also sponsor senior discounts. Many banks offer special services for older customers.

Municipal governments may also offer reduced fees — like the rubbish exemption for certain seniors in DeKalb, or reductions in building permit and pet license fees in Chicago.

You can find out about these programs from local senior citizen organizations, chambers of commerce, municipal offices and other sources of information. Watch for newspaper advertising, such as senior discounts offered by supermarket chains. You may be able to receive a special card that will entitle you to reduced rates at a great number of local establishments.

There are a few senior discounts available on a statewide basis. Seniors may hunt and fish without having to purchase licenses. Camping facilities in state parks may be used free of charge by persons 65 and older; those between 62 and 65 receive a 50 per cent discount. Reduced rates on bus and other mass transit facilities are provided, under state law, in more than 20 areas. Community colleges may waive or reduce tuition for senior citizen students.

I know that changes in Social Security benefits can occur as a result of changes in my living conditions. Other than change of address, what must be reported? — P. O. Dear Mrs. O:

According to the Social Security Administration, Social Security recipients should report changes in mailing address, any earnings greater than $2,760 in 1976 (this does not apply to persons 72 and older), and any trips outside the United States lasting 30 days or longer.

Those receiving Social Security benefits as a dependent or survivor should also report a divorce or annulment, a marriage, the adoption of a child, a child leaving the care of a young wife or widow, a child reaching 18, or a change in school attendance for a child aged 18 to 22. Reporting these changes doesn't necessarily mean a loss or reduction in benefits — in some instances, your benefits will not change at all. For example, if you are a wife 62 or older and were married for 20 years or more to someone who had earned Social Security benefits for you, those benefits would continue after divorce.

I mailed an application for tax relief six weeks ago and haven't heard anything yet. What's going on? — H. M. Dear Mr. M:

In the experience at the Senior Action Center, about 12 weeks is elapsing between the time of application and the time a check is issued. The volunteers at the center can help you trace your particular claim. Make sure you fill in all the necessary information, or your application may be returned.

Persons may call the toll-free Senior Action Hotline 800-252-6565 with questions or complaints about government agencies or programs or for information about tax relief, health care, food stamps, Social Security, employment, housing or legal aid.

In Dixon persons may call the Lee County Council for Aging 288-2117.

Flippin' Competition

In 1776, America challenged England with muskets, bayonets and cannons. Today, 200 years later, the two nations vie with skillet and pancakes instead. Since 1950, the women of Olney, Buckinghamshire, England, and Liberal, Kansas, have competed annually in a special race on Shrove Tuesday. Shrove Tuesday is the day before Lent begins. In each city, women run a 415-yard dash. The fastest time determines the winning city. The only catch is that the women must flip pancakes continuously while they run. According to legend, the race began in Olney in 1445, when a woman absentmindedly arrived for the Shrovetide service holding a skillet and pancake.

DO YOU KNOW — What is the French name for Shrove Tuesday?

For a players-owners agreement

The baseball world still waits

By The Associated Press
Spring training began officially Monday... for owner George Steinbrenner of the New York Yankees and a couple dozen Chicago White Sox minor leaguers. The rest of the baseball world, however, was waiting for some agreement between players and owners that would open the camps, while the fate of the San Francisco-Toronto Giants remained up in the air.

Another in the lengthy series of labor meetings between the club owners and the Major League Baseball Players' Association—the 23rd and longest session to date—had MLBPA Executive Director Marvin Miller resorting to football talk. "Hopefully, we moved the ball a little," he said, adding, "I don't think it was the kind of meeting we could say we almost bridge the gap, because it's not true."

American League president Lee MacPhail called the session "a progressive meeting—but that doesn't mean an agreement will happen in the next few days."

Further developments seemed to hinge on a decision expected sometime this week by a three-judge federal court on baseball's appeal of arbitrator Peter Seitz's recent ruling that made pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally free agents for playing the 1975 season without signing contracts, thus playing out the option year of their contracts. "Our feeling all along is you can't litigate and negotiate at the same time," Miller said.

As far as the Giants are concerned, National League owners were to decide today whether to grant Robert Lurie and Bob Short more time—"two or three days," according to NL president Chub Feeney—to complete their purchase of the financially troubled San Francisco club from Horace Stoneham. The deadline expired Monday.

Lurie said he was optimistic that "we're going to get it squared away. We're not going to let this thing slip away from us."

Steinbrenner, suspended from baseball for two years in September 1974 for making illegal contributions to the reelection campaign of President Richard Nixon, had his ban lifted by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn with six months to go. And since this is the time of year when sports pages ordinarily are filled with news from the training camps:

—The Chicago White Sox opened their Florida base for 25 nonroster players, including former major leaguers Cleon Jones and Bob Oliver.

—The Atlanta Braves will allow nine nonroster farmhands to begin training Thursday.

—The Chicago Cubs signed second baseman Manny Trillo, shortstop Dave Rosello and pitcher Willie Prall, while the Los Angeles Dodgers asked waivers on reserve infielder Ken McMullen, a 13-year major league veteran.

Richwoods rates as AA favorite

By The Associated Press
Peoria Richwoods became a solid favorite for the Class AA crown when the Knights captured the No. 1 ranking in the final Associated Press Illinois High School basketball poll.

Richwoods, named No. 1 for the fourth straight week, dominated the final poll by nailing 15 of the 17 first-place votes and compiling 269 of a possible 272 poll points.

East Leyden, with a 24-0 record and one less victory than undefeated Richwoods, finished second. The Eagles had one first-place vote and 251 points.

Aurora West received the other first-place vote and finished with 239 points for third place. There were no changes from the previous week among the top five teams with Chicago Phillips, the defending Class AA champion, fourth and Thornridge fifth.

There was considerable shuffling in the rankings after that but no team dropped out of the top 16 although Chicago Orr, Joliet Central, Normal Community, Oak Park and Sterling were defeated.

Moving up in the ratings were Peoria Central, Chicago Marist, Galesburg, Chicago Gordon and Decatur Eisenhower.

Peoria Central climbed from ninth to sixth with a 20-3 record. All three of Peoria Central's losses have been to top-ranked Richwoods. Chicago Marist moved from 10th to seventh while Orr fell from sixth to eighth.

Galesburg dumped Rock Island 89-78 and went from 11th to No. 9 while Gordon climbed from 12th to 10th.

The top 16 teams in the final weekly Associated Press Class AA Illinois High School basketball poll, including team records, first place votes and total points:

1. Peoria Richwoods (25-0) (15) 269.
2. East Leyden (24-0) (11) 251.
3. Aurora West (23-2) (11) 239.
4. Chicago Phillips (24-3) 208.
5. Thornridge (22-3) 188.
6. Peoria Central (20-3) 159.
7. Chicago Marist (24-2) 145.
8. Chicago Orr (23-2) 136.
9. Galesburg (22-3) 132.
10. Chicago Gordon Tech (21-3) 120.
11. Normal Community (22-3) 85.
12. Joliet Central (21-4) 84.
13. Decatur Eisenhower (19-4) 80.
14. Chicago Morgan Park (19-5) 63.
15. Sterling (21-4) 38.
16. Oak Park (21-4) 32.

Class A ratings

By The Associated Press
Undeclared and top-ranked Eldorado, Lawrenceville, Cairo, ROVA and Watseka were unanimous selections to win their respective sectionals this week in the Class A Illinois High School basketball tournament.

All five teams received all 17 votes from a panel of sportswriters and broadcasters throughout the state.

Eldorado was favored to win the Eldorado Sectional, Lawrenceville the Bridgeport Sectional, Cairo the Sparta Sectional, ROVA the Aledo Sectional and Watseka the Danville Sectional.

Three schools missed being unanimous selections by one vote. They were Riverdale in the Port Byron Sectional, Marmion M. A. in the Somanauk Sectional and Mount Pulaski in the Shelbyville Sectional.

Other strong favorites were Chicago Christian in the Mokense Sectional, Buda Western in the Wenona Sectional and undefeated Bethany in the Tuscola Sectional.

Bloomington Central Catholic was favored in the Normal Sectional but undefeated Gridley received some strong support. Winnebago was the choice at Maple Park but Kaneland also received strong backing.

Pleasant Plains was named the favorite at Carlinville but Piasa Southwestern and Diver-non also landed votes while Havana and Quincy Notre Dame are expected to fight it out at Lewistown, with Havana having a slight edge.

If the pollsters have as much success this week as they had last week, the favorites should sit comfortably. Of the top 16 teams in the final Associated Press Class A poll, 14 survived the regional playoffs.

No. 4 Venice and No. 14 Effingham St. Anthony were the only losers and No. 7 Madison was the winner over Venice, the 1975 Class A champion.

Volleyball
The Arch Vendors, league leaders for three-fourths of the Dixon Park District Spiker Volleyball League, fell to third place with three losses to Fay's Lounge in the final round of regular league play. Fay's went into the last round of action needing a sweep to tie Allen-Buckley Funeral Home for first place. Fay's led, led by Stan Quaco, Dave Thompson and Gary Jansen, defeated the Vendors 15-10, 15-12 and, after being down 0-8, took the decisive game 15-10.

In other action, Borg-Warner, in a bid to overtake the fourth-place South Winds Mavericks, fell one game short of their quest. Borg-Warner, led by J. R. Workman, Rich Mueller and Al Charvat, defeated the Mavericks 15-3, 15-13, and then lost 13-15.

The playoff for first place between Fay's Lounge and Allen-Buckley Funeral Home will be Wednesday at Madison School, starting at 6:45, with three out of five games to decide the title. The scheduled volleyball clinic will start immediately after the championship game.

Four unanimous in Big Ten

CHICAGO (AP)—All-American Scott May, teammate Kent Benson of Indiana, Terry Furlow of Michigan State and Rickey Green of Michigan were unanimous choices on the Associated Press 1976 All-Big Ten basketball team.

Minnesota's Mike Thompson also made the first team, which possesses tremendous scoring ability in addition to height and speed.

May, Benson and Furlow were repeaters from the 1975 team.

Furlow, a 6-5 senior, is about to lock up his second straight Big Ten scoring title while the 6-7 May and 6-11 Benson are the heart of an Indiana team which recently clinched a fourth straight Big Ten title.

Green, a 6-2 junior college transfer, is the main cog in Michigan's speed machine and the 6-10 Thompson, a sophomore from the Bahamas, is among Big Ten leaders in scoring, rebounding and field goal percentage.

May, Benson, Furlow and Green received 18 points each by being named on all nine first-team ballots of a panel of Midwest sportswriters. A first-team vote was worth two points with one point going for a second-team vote.

Thompson collected 12 points and was named on the first team by three of the pollsters.

Iowa's Scott Thompson, also among the league's scoring leaders, topped the second team with eight points. Also making the second team were Eugene Parker of Purdue, Billy McKinney of Northwestern, Ray Williams of Minnesota and Bob Wilkerson of Indiana.

Dale Koehler of Wisconsin and Bruce King of Iowa missed making the second team by one point. Quinn Buckner of Indiana, a member of the 1975 All-Big Ten team, failed to gain a mention this year.

CHICAGO (AP)—The Associated Press 1976 All-Big Ten basketball squad:

Rutgers completes first unbeaten regular season

By ALEX SACHARE

AP Sports Writer
 Guards Jeff Kleinbaum and Ed Jordan told both sides of the Rutgers basketball story. "This is something I'll remember for the rest of my life," said Kleinbaum after the Scarlet Knights completed the first unbeaten regular season since the school began intercollegiate basketball competition in 1906 with a come-from-behind 85-80 triumph over St. Bonaventure Monday night.

Jordan, on the other hand, was looking ahead to the post-season playoffs. "This is just the beginning — now we've got to keep it going," he said. By beating the Bonnies, third-ranked Rutgers became only the 19th NCAA major college to complete a regular season without a loss, according to records dating back to 1939. The nation's other major unbeaten team, top-ranked Indiana, raised its record to 26-0 by beating Northwestern 76-63. The Hoosiers close out their regular schedule against Ohio State Saturday.

In other games involving Top Twenty teams, No. 5 Nevada-Las Vegas whipped St. Mary's, Calif., 124-86; No. 6 Alabama beat Georgia 87-76; No. 8 Notre Dame defeated No. 14 Western Michigan 95-88 in overtime; No. 11 Michigan was upset by Minnesota 81-79; No. 12 Tennessee edged Mississippi State 78-76; No. 16 St. John's nipped Niagara 65-64, and No. 20 Centenary beat Virginia Commonwealth 98-94.

Rutgers' perfect finish did not come easy. The Scarlet Knights' high-powered offense, which had run off 100 or more points on 10 occasions this season, couldn't get going against St. Bonaventure. "We had too many bad passes in the first half, and couldn't make a lay-up," said Rutgers Coach Tom Young. "We were ahead by two, but we should have been up by 12 or 14."

Rutgers' 39-37 halftime edge didn't last long. The Bonnies, with Glenn Hagen and Essie Hollis leading the way, kept up the pressure and went ahead by seven points, 75-68, with six minutes to go. Rutgers' game is running, and in the next 90 seconds Phil Sellers, Hollis Copeland and Mike Dabney hit layups to close to 75-74 with 4:22 remaining. The lead seasawed for a while, but two free throws by Rutgers freshman Abdel Anderson put the Scarlet Knights in front to stay 82-80 with 1:31 left.

A turnover gave the ball back to Rutgers, and with 31 seconds left the Bonnies' Jim Baron was called for a foul on an attempted steal. Dabney's two free throws clinched the victory. Sellers' 25 points topped the Scarlet Knights, 26-0. Hagen had 22 points and Hollis 15 points and 21 rebounds for the Bonnies, 16-9.

Rutgers opens the ECAC Metropolitan Division tournament on Thursday against Long Island University in the Metropolitan Division. The Bonnies play Niagara in the Upstate New York Division.

Indiana, which has already won the Big Ten title, broke away from Northwestern with a 13-4 spurt that established a 13-point halftime edge. Scott May was the Hoosiers' high scorer with 25 points.

Eddie Owens collected 33 points, hitting on 15 of 27 field goal attempts, in triggering Nevada-Las Vegas' victory over St. Mary's. The Rebels, in posting their 39th straight home court triumph, boosted their won-lost record to 27-1. Nevada-Las Vegas led at halftime 58-39.

Alabama clinched at least a tie for the Southeastern Conference crown by overcoming a seven-point deficit in the final four minutes and scoring 22 of the game's final 26 points. Leon Douglas led the Tide with 20 points and 20 rebounds.

Alabama leads second-place Tennessee by 1½ games and can clinch the SEC title by winning at Kentucky Saturday or at Vanderbilt Monday. Tennessee has one game left, at home against Georgia Saturday. Vanderbilt dropped out by losing to Mississippi State 81-72.

Bernard King kept Tennessee alive in the SEC by recovering a blocked shot and hitting a short jumper with three seconds left for the winning points. King scored 33 and Ernie Grunfeld 26 for the Vols.

Bill Paterno scored eight points in overtime as Notre Dame handed Western Michigan only its second loss in 23 games. The Irish shot a blistering 59 per cent from the field, with Adrian Dantley leading the way with 33 points. Paterno had 18, while Jeff Tyson led the losers with 29, including a 25-footer at the buzzer which sent the game into overtime.

Michael Thompson hit 13 of 17 shots from the field and scored 32 points and Ray Williams added 25 points, 21 in the second half, to lead Minnesota past Big Ten runnerup Michigan.

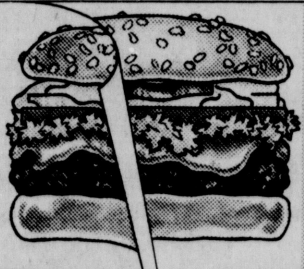

Glen Williams' 17-foot jumper with two seconds left put St. John's ahead 65-63, then Niagara's Vern Allen was fouled at the final buzzer. His first free throw rolled around the rim and fell in, but his second shot hit the back iron and bounced away.

Robert Parish, as usual, was the big man for Centenary. The 7-foot-1 center scored 28 points and pulled down 20 rebounds against Virginia Commonwealth.

Elsewhere, Rick Wilson's 26 points carried Louisville past Bradley 107-89; Bruce Campbell scored eight points in the final five minutes to lead Providence over Villanova 89-81; West Virginia earned a berth in the ECAC Southern Division tournament by whipping New Hampshire 91-67, and North Texas State finished its best season ever with a 22-4 record by beating West Texas State 88-69.

ONE MAN FARM TILING?

Vermeer T-600C Tiling Trencher: Big Money-Saver for Large Tiling Projects... Great Money-Maker for Custom Operators!

Looking for a labor-saving way to eliminate wet fields, improve idle farm land... and at the same time, jump into profitable custom work? It's here! Vermeer's popular T-600C Trencher installs plastic and clay tile at speeds up to 25 feet per minute. And, with near-perfect laser grade control (optional), you can make it a one-man operation! The Vermeer T-600C digs 10-24" wide, 0-8 feet deep... ideal for custom operators because it's used extensively throughout the world for laying pipe, digging foundation footings, and mainline or service line trenching. Also available, Vermeer's economical PTO-driven Model PT-12 and new PT-18 Tiling Trenchers.

STATE PROPERTY TO BE OFFERED FOR SALE

Pursuant to the provisions of the State Property Control Act, as amended, approximately 200 tons of metal scrap, located at the West Fourth Street storage site in Dixon, Ill., will be offered at a public sale by submission of bids with the sale to the highest bidder.

The scrap may be inspected at the site by contacting F. F. Schotka, District 2's main office, 819 Depot Avenue, Dixon, Ill. 61021. Bids shall be submitted as a single bid on a per net ton basis, in a letter form, stating on the envelope "Bid Opening March 19, 1976". All bids shall be addressed to the Department of General Services, Property Control Division, 4390 South Jeffery Street, Springfield, Ill. The bidder shall maintain such insurance as will protect him from claims for operations under the contract whether such operations be by himself or any other sub-contractor or anyone directly or indirectly employed by either of them. No bids will be considered after 10:30 a.m., local time, Friday, March 19, 1976. Checks shall be made payable to the Department of General Services, State of Illinois, and mailed to the office of the Property Control Division, 4390 South Jeffery Street, Springfield, Ill. The State of Illinois reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive any or all informalities in the connection with the bids. The scrap may be inspected by interested bidders between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., on any weekday except State holidays. The successful bidder must remove the scrap from the grounds by truck and the hours this may be done is 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., on any weekday except State holidays.
